UNDERSTANDING

How might they be overcome?
- Is the level of relationship achieved by the early church possible in our culture?
What sort of things do we need to work at to have similar levels of relationship?
- How might you go about developing stronger and more supportive relationships within your home group?
- The key activities of the early church can be summarised as: teaching, prayer, breaking bread, signs and wonders, worship and loving care for each other.
Do any of these activities need to be developed in your group in order to make it better balanced/ more effective?
- In what key areas of small group life do you want to see 'heaven drawn down' more? Does anything practical need to be done to achieve this?
- The early church was radical in terms of its care for the poor and disadvantaged.
Why was it so radical? What excuses do we give today for not being so radical?
- How might the Spirit be prompting you to be more radical in your care for others?
